

Pre-Lecture Quiz, Chapter 29, Skeletal Muscle, Bone, and Joint Disorder Drugs

True/False

1. Skeletal muscle relaxants are used during surgical procedures to facilitate body positioning.
2. DMARDs are used to increase the function of patients with chronic musculoskeletal conditions.
3. Bone resorption inhibitors are used to treat osteoporosis.
4. When prescribing a DMARD, clients should be prescreened for autoimmune disorders.
5. Bisphosphonates are typically prescribed for about 5 years.

Fill in the Blank

1. _____ is the most common adverse reaction of skeletal muscle relaxants.
2. Early stage rheumatoid arthritis is usually treated with _____ drugs.
3. Allopurinol reduces the production of uric acid, decreasing the deposit of _____ crystals in _____, which causes pain.
4. In RA treatment, the DMARDs are used to suppress the _____ system.
5. _____ are drugs used to treat musculoskeletal disorders such as osteoporosis and Paget disease.